Fourteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Luke 10 : 1 - 12, 17 - 20

It's always nice to feel that at end of a week of labor, it was successful and one rejoices. This is how that first missionary experience of Christ's disciples ended and the celebrations began. We too should be able to celebrate our faith successes as they did.

Pope Leo XIV

One does not commit evil when one prays, so let us pray more together.

Did You Know?

The Italian government is spending $1 billion to accommodate 35 million pilgrims to Rome, Jubilee year 2025.

Book

"The Edge of Sadness", by Edwin O'Connor. Might be worth reading. A novel exploring the dissolution of grand-parents with their grand-children knowing little to nothing what is going on in their lives. Further extending the losing relationships between adult brothers and sisters, uncles and aunts, and cousins. It explores the gulf between young and old today and how isolated our relationships have become.

Cardinal Pizzballa

The war in Gaza will end one day. But to rebuild emotions of distrust, hatred and deep disdain will be an enormous effort.

Nigeria

Nigeria is facing increasing social and economic issues waiting to explode. If poverty and corruption are not urgently addressed, according to the Catholic bishops of Nigeria, there is a line where citizens will begin protests and violence can easily spill over. Keep the people in your prayers for government to find peaceful solutions to political problems.
